

is the natural world your passion?

DORIS DUKE CONSERVATION SCHOLARS

at Northern Arizona University

The DDCS@NAU program provides scientific, communication and leadership training to students who are committed to the goals of making a significant contribution to land, water, and wildlife conservation and expanding the numbers of currently underrepresented individuals interested in the conservation profession.

DDCS@NAU is seeking 18 - 20 scholars to begin the program in summer 2014.

Learn more and apply

lci.nau.edu/ddcs

NORTHERN ARIZONA UNIVERSITY

1ST SUMMER IMMERSION PROGRAM

- 5-week immersion program in the Grand Canyon Region including community-building activities, field trips and service-learning projects hosted by the Grand Canyon Trust and its partners;
- Housing, meals, and $2,500 stipend provided.

1ST SUMMER RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

- 5-week collaborative conservation research project in the Grand Canyon region with other scholars during the second half of the summer;
- Housing at NAU and $2,500 stipend provided.

2ND SUMMER RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

- 8-week research project with a small group of DD conservation scholars on conservation topics located nationwide;
- $5,000 stipend provided.

WINTER WORKSHOPS

- Five-day expense-paid workshop each January during the DDCS@NAU program provides specialized conservation skills training in quantitative analysis, geographic information systems (GIS) and spatial modeling, and communications;
- Opportunity for scholars, mentors, and program staff to reconnect during the winter.

lci.nau.edu/ddcs

